To Whom It May Concern:

SUBJECT: Product Support for Woodward GSOV Products

Woodward has strived over the years to maintain support for its products for extended periods, well beyond what would normally be supported by consumer or even process industry components. Nevertheless, the time always comes where it is necessary to cease the normal production for certain products. Woodward recognizes the critical nature of our customer's applications, and has implemented support plans after cessation of normal production.

In 2006, Woodward released an enhanced version of the Gas Shutoff Valve product family referenced as a GSOV25HT. This new product replaces the GSOV product and provides for increased operating temperatures, pressures and extended operating life while maintaining the best qualities of the previous models.

New production of the older model GSOV products was discontinued in September 2006. In support of Woodward's customers, a support plan was created to repair and overhaul these units until the end of 2011 or as long as parts are available. Any new or replacement requirements will be supported by providing a GSOV25HT product.

Please contact your local distributor or Woodward facility to determine if repair/overhaul is still available or for replacement product information.
